Shea Marie CHANDLER AND William Stinson MILLER

By PAMELA FULTON BROADUS
Wedding Coordinator with Splendid Events, LLC

Shea is from Louisville. Stinson is from Lexington. They are both graduates of the University of Kentucky who knew a wedding during March Madness was a gamble. However, the chances of the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky both going to the Final Four – very slim! The chances of them going to the Final Four and playing each other on March 31, 2012 – next to impossible!

But, that's just what happened. Shea was beyond nervous at the thought of her wedding day during the BIG game. What do you do? Bring the game in to the reception, of course. Dad rented a big screen and had a satellite dish installed at The Gillespie. The bridal party traded the bouquets for pom poms when the wedding party was announced. It was the perfect compromise.

Simply elegant was the bride's request for her special day. A traditional mass ceremony was held at the beautiful Calvary Episcopal Church in historic Old Louisville. The bride and groom were stunning. The bridesmaids, in their black halter dresses with ruffled collars and striking bouquets in rich spring and summer colors, were absolutely gorgeous as they strolled down the long aisle to meet the groomsmen.

The Gillespie was soft, elegant and beautiful. Shea chose this venue because the ornate gold doors and accents reminded her of her grandmother. Draping across the ceiling lit up the room, while champagne linen and gorgeous spring colored centerpieces adorned each table. Masterson's passed hors' d'ouvres during the cocktail hour, served Caesar Salad "Cosmo" Martinis, then finished it off with a lavish buffet.

V-Groove, with lead singer and Master of Ceremonies, Herlon Robinson, rocked the night. The Men of Sigma Chi serenaded the bride, and guests danced into the night. It was a "Splendid Event!"

Shea is the daughter of Robert Chandler and Christy Chandler of Louisville. Stinson is the son of Cynthia and Herbert Allen Miller, Jr. of Lexington. Shea is a speech-language pathologist with the Fayette County Public Schools and Stinson is director of volunteers with the American Red Cross.

They will reside in Lexington, Ky. The beautiful couple honeymooned in Cancun.
