TRAINER

Walt McKinley is an Inspirational Speaker, Trainer, and #1 bestselling Author of "Monsters In My House, A True Story", who delivers memorable keynote presentations, focused on creating a positive mindset, healing trauma, and the four keys to living an extraordinary life.

Walt is passionate about speaking life into the world because of his own childhood journey that included; extreme abuse, fourteen childhood moves, homelessness, and an attempted teen suicide all culminating with testifying against his father in court at 16. His comeback story is one for the ages and reminds us life is truly limitless. His conversations on how to live your power, potential, and purpose are life changing.

Walt is a retired Naval Intelligence Officer and former Fortune 300 Corporate Executive who's led high performing global teams for over 25 years. He curated a heart centered, uplifting, and empowering leadership style that built top performing organizations who achieved record breaking results around the world.

Walt uses his extraordinarily diverse life experiences to show your history doesn't define your legacy. He shares stories and tangible approaches with audiences to create a mentality of healing, purpose, and success. We are at a turning point and need strong voices who can show others how to unlock their full potential using real life experiences.
