WHY THAT LED TO AN IDEA.

No one said building a company is easy. But it's time to be honest about how brutal it really is and the price so many founders secretly pay.

Successful entrepreneurs achieve hero status in our culture. We idolize the Elon Musk's. And we celebrate the blazingly fast growth of the Inc. 500 companies. But many of those entrepreneurs, harbor secret demons: Before they made it big, they struggled through moments of near-debilitating anxiety and despair--times when it seemed everything might crumble. We know we have been there.

Unlike most things in life, where you could work, succeed or even be at the top without one of these 3 things I mentioned, entrepreneurship not only require all three, it demands these three things at a very serious level.

As an entrepreneur, your mind is always occupied thinking about all kinds of problems/ solutions, people, and business. Your body is always moving, slogging around, or sitting for long hours pushing its limits, even at times when everyone around is relaxing or sleeping.

And lastly, your inner self or soul (as many would want to call it) is either elevated and pushing you toward the goal or worried about all the things in the world that could go wrong. And it is the soul, that basically decides whether you will make it big or end up giving up.

Personal experience from our CEO is that your Mind, body, and soul need to be in perfect harmony, if they're not, you'll end up being miserable and we know how it feels we don't want anyone else to go through that.

That said how do we resolve that, we don't belong to the mental health space we are tech people, and this is where our story began.

Our CEO wanted life easy for him, not stress free but in a competitive world where fortune 500 and other business with money can buy the best tools, deploy the best marketing strategies how do you compete? How do you make sure your product or service will reach the audience? How do you get those tool that will help you grow without burning a hole in your pocket and eventually your life?

This is where the IDEA of Collective came, as in do something for the masses, build something that creates a legacy more than just another tool. So, we went to do research that what tools do small business need, to compete in the current world scenarios.

The question in front of us was, that if we were to start a new company today, with no money how do we start? What tools would we need that will help us grow?

This led to "The Avtar Collective".
