

Dr Haroun Rhemtula is a Principal Specialist Obstetrician and Gynaecologist and lecturer at Charlotte Maxeke Johannesburg Academic Hospital (CMJAH) and Wits Medical School.

After obtaining his medical degree at the University of the Witwatersrand Medical School, he travelled and worked in the United Kingdom and returned to South Africa to specialise in Obstetrics and Gynaecology.

During his training, he was awarded the Gordon Grant prize in gynaecology. After obtaining his Fellowship from the College of Medicine, he completed his MMed degree. He continued to work in the government sector and then moved into private practice. After 5 years in private practice he moved to the Province of Alberta in Canada and took up the position of senior specialist. He was later promoted to clinical

Head of Department, Associate Zone Medical Director of Women's Health (Alberta North Zone) and Chief of Surgical Services at NLRHC, Alberta Health Services.

He was also attached to the University of Alberta, Faculty of Medicine and taught residents and was an Assessor of medical graduates in OBGYN to the College Of Physicians and Surgeons of Alberta(CPSA).

He returned to South Africa and embarked on a Fellowship in Maternal and Foetal Medicine at Wits. In 2019 he was elected a Fellowship of the Southern African society of Thrombosis and Haemostasis in recognition of his work in the field of thrombosis and haemostasis. He is currently completing a MSc (Medicine) degree.