

Erika Cartledge, the Founder and CEO of Your Chic is Showing, is a personal stylist and image architect who helps her clients elevate their personal style and build their confidence. Erika is a graduate of the Goldman Sachs One Million Black Women: Black in Business program, has a Certificate of Image Consulting (International Association of Professional Image Consultants) and a decade of experience, styling and educating hundreds of people through one-on-one services, workshops, masterclasses, webinars, and publications. Her styling expertise offers specializations in plus sized and full-figured styling, maternity styling, career styling, and special event styling. She's also been featured on Forbes.com, Brides.com and in Kingdom Style Magazine. Erika believes that elevated style should be accessible to anyone, anywhere and proudly offers all of her services both in-person and virtually.

Erika graduated, Cum Laude, from Howard University. She's now based in the Washington, DC metro-area where she lives with her awesome husband Roger and their three incredible children.